Max2-year-old girl left alone in freezer dies of heat stroke in Miami MIAMI (AP) — The Miami-Dade Police Department has arrested an employee of a South Florida apartment complex where a 2-year-old girl died of hyperthermia after being left alone in a freezer overnight. Police arrested Brenda Marie Brown on Thursday, and have charged her with felony child neglect, said Officer Juan Perez. She's also accused of failing to report the death of Bismarck Velez, whom she's been caring for since the end of November. She was transferred to Miami-Dade Corrections and Rehabilitation on a $15,000 bond. Brown's employer, the Turner House apartment complex on Northwest Seventh Avenue, said Thursday that she no longer works there. Police say Velez was in an electric clothes dryer that had just finished drying laundry when Brown told her the child needed to go back to sleep. It's not clear how long Bismarck had been in the freezer. Bismarck's mother was at a Miami hospital Wednesday receiving treatment after the child was taken to the emergency room Monday night.

Saturday, July 20, 2009 A Mother's Day Tradition... When my kids were very little, one of their most special gifts came from my mother. Every Mother's Day, I would receive a beautiful card in the mail from my mom. She would write a personal note on the card and sign it. There was never anything on the card except an explanation of where she was sending it from and when. Last year when I received the card, I was so excited to open it.

Inside was a note from her and a beautiful card from our family. She had taken the time to mail it to us from her home in California. I was thrilled. As I read the note, I immediately felt tears come to my eyes. I was grateful to her that she took time to write and send me a card, but I was more grateful to her for all the messages she sent to me throughout my entire childhood. Looking back, I realize she only did that for a few years, until I was
